BOOHERISMS

FROM BOOHER'S ELKO INDEPENDENT

"FROM the stalwart republican point of view, the fine crops are due to the protective tariff and the low price of wheat to the determination of the democrats to revise the sacred schedules that protect the trusts."

"The latest great reform proposed by the president does not relate to the tariff or the trusts or spelling, but to old fashioned hens. By means of an executive order he means to make every full grown hen lay at least one egg a day, and prohibit her from setting on eggs at all. This is the only reform he ever proposed which does not in some way conflict with the constitution, and we heartily approve of it. The hens need regulating, and Teddy is to do the job. Let the reform begin."

"THE Republican organs are trying to defeat Frank P. Mannix, the democratic candidate for secretary of state, because he did not come to Nevada until 1905 and has not voted at a general election. In making this fight on Mr. Mannix the republicans forget that Mr. Elliott, their candidate for surveyor general is in the same boat as Mr. Mannix. The Independent is reliably informed that Mr. Elliott has never cast a vote in the state. If this true it would be well for our republican friends to pick the legs out of their own eyes before they spy around for beams in the eyes of their opponents."
